A SPLENDID TRIBUTE TO OUR HEROES

Governor Willis, of Ohio, Is Among Speakers at Arlington Cemetery

WHERE MONUMENT TO MAINE'S DEAD IS UNVEILED.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES

Attendant Upon the Function at National Cemetery—Pittsburg Honors Hero of Battle of Vera Cruz—Parade Shortened in New York City—Memorial Day Generally Observed.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, May 31.—Unveiling and dedication of the Maine Memorial monument, erected by the government to the dead of the battleship destroyed 17 years ago in Havana harbor, was the principal feature of Memorial Day ceremonies in Arlington National cemetery.

President Wilson, Secretary Bryan, Secretary Daniels and Governor Frank B. Willis, of Ohio, were on the program more thoroughly national in its scope than ever, since General John A. Logan established services of the kind 47 years ago.

The monument dedicated to the Maine dead is the mainmast and fighting top of the battleship which long lay imbedded with other wreckage in the bottom of Havana harbor. Restored and rigged as it was on the deck of the Maine, it now arises from a granite and marble base chiseled in the form of a gun turret with names of the Maine's 264 victims carved on its curved exterior.

In the presence of veterans of the Civil and Spanish-American wars, the president, cabinet, justice of the supreme court, diplomats of foreign nations and heads of patriotic organizations of the United States, the fitting memorial was today unveiled. Fifty white-uniformed marines manned the improvised rigging designed after the old rat-lines of the destroyed ship as the veil fell. This exercise followed an invocation by Rev. Father Chidwick, chaplain of the Maine at the time of her destruction.

As part of the ceremony Frank Bagley Daniels and Jonathan Worth Daniels, sons of the secretary of the navy and nephews of Ensign Worth Bagley, the first American officer killed in the war with Spain, raised an ensign to the top of the mast and hoisted signal flags flaring to the breeze the words, "Maine, 1915." The youth, clad in sailor suits, were attended by Mrs. Adelaide Worth Bagley and Mrs. Josephus Daniels, mother and sister of Ensign Bagley. Secretary Daniels was on the program for the dedicatory address. On the program at this ceremony also were Major Charles F. Cramer, commander-in-chief, United States War Veterans; General H. Oden Lake, national commander, Army and Navy Union, and Major Robert Lee Longstreet, U. S. A., Monsignor W. T. Russell, a Spanish war veteran, pronounced the benediction and "laps" were sounded.

A memorial tablet placed upon the mast in Havana harbor by the Havana Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, which was removed when the government removed the mast to Washington, was re-affixed to the shaft.

Memorial ceremonies of the day were in four sections beginning with exercises at the graves of the unknown dead whose memory was eulogized by Governor Willis of Ohio. The rough pile of granite marking the huge grave of 2111 Union soldiers whose rank and names are not known, was covered with flowers. Following those ceremonies, was the memorial tribute to victims of the Spanish war under auspices of the District of Columbia Spanish War Veterans. Secretary Bryan was on the program at an opening address by Department Commander H. C. Wilson. Elaborate ceremonies characterized the memorial to the Civil War dead under auspices of officers of the Grand Army of the Republic and Woman's Relief Corps. They were in the historic, vine-covered amphitheater on the crest of the Arlington grounds overlooking the national capital. John McElroy, acting department commander G. A. R., was master of ceremonies, to introduce President Wilson and other speakers, including Past Department Commander A. P. Tasker, Past Department Commander George H. Slaybaugh, who read Lincoln Gettysburg address, and Mrs. Isabel Worrell Ball past national senior vice president Woman's Relief Corps.

The program included a salute of 21 guns, at the arrival of the president. After the general ceremonies (Continued on Page 7, Col. 4.)

Germany's Reply Is Thoroughly Disappointing; Sophistry and Arguments On Technicalities But No Guarantee to Safeguard Lives of Americans

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, May 31.—Two international problems—the one a crisis in the relations between the United States and Germany and the other the determination of the administration to bring about an early cessation of internal warfare in Mexico—developed for President Wilson today a combination of circumstances hardly paralleled in American history.

The president had prepared a statement to be issued tomorrow as a warning to the Mexican factions that their incessant strife had forced the innocent populace to the verge of starvation and that unless the chief elements came to an agreement to restore order, some other means would have to be found by the United States to accomplish this end.

There was a confidence in executive quarters that the warning would suffice to set in motion definite plans for peace in Mexico, but in respect of the relations with Germany, made increasingly grave by the reply from Berlin to the American note sent as a consequence of the Lusitania disaster, pessimism and high tension were apparent.

The official text of the note from Germany had arrived and was before the president early today. Officials generally read it with profound disappointment for, they pointed out, it endeavored to obscure and evade the main issue—the question of humanity involved—and sought to interpose a technical argument on matters of law hitherto undisputed under the universally accepted laws of nations. Most important of all, it was noted, that no attention was given to the request of the United States for assurance that American lives would be safeguarded in the future.

From a previous knowledge of the president's feeling over the Lusitania disaster in which more than 100 Americans lost their lives, it is confidently believed in many quarters that he will order the dispatch of a second note to Berlin within 24 or 48 hours, answering Germany's request for the facts of the Lusitania case and equipment with a statement of the circumstances as made clear in the first American note and an intimation that a prompt reply is expected. Reference, it is believed, will be made to the understanding of the American government that another American vessel, the Nebraska, has been torpedoed without warning while the diplomatic discussion was in progress and urgent inquiry it is thought will be made as to what effective measures will be taken immediately by the German government to prevent the further destruction of American lives and property.

Legal officials of the United States government say the American point of view on the legal questions involved has never been disputed in the past by Germany or any other nation of the world in any of the essential features. Analyzing the German reply, it was pointed out that the German acceptance of responsibility for attacks on the American ships Guilford and the Cushing with expressions of regret and offers of reparation could not aid materially in clearing up the situation, since it was declared in the American note such promises do not remove a dangerous practice. This view, it is held, is proved by the attack on the Nebraska and the absence of any assurance that Americans on unarmed merchant ships of any flag in the future will be transferred to a place of safety before such a ship is destroyed as a prize of war.

Continued attacks on American vessels even though hostile intent may be disavowed in each case, as regarded by American officials as constituting in total effect a hostile practice.

The course of the United States government is expected to be shaped by the president before the day is over and will be discussed at tomorrow's cabinet meeting. Through Ambassador Gerard, the president has known for several days of the disappointing character of the German note. What his action will be, is unknown to any one but himself.

The discussion in the German note of the sinking of the British steamer Falaba on which Leon C. Thresher, an American citizen lost his life, was not surprising to officials, for there has been a controversy in the reports of the German government and the affidavits of survivors over the length of time given the Falaba to transfer her passengers—a point that has never been satisfactorily established. The Falaba case, however, is only incidental to the American protest over the German method of conducting submarine warfare and is not as vital from a legal point of view as the torpedoing without warning of the Lusitania.

Germany's contention that the Lusitania was built as an auxiliary cruiser and was on the British naval list and that it was armed with cannon, was met with the statement in official quarters that the merchant ships of all nations may be commandeered by the respective governments in times of war, but the change from a peaceful merchantman to an armed auxiliary naval vessel is a proceeding of such a distinct character as to leave no doubt as to when it has taken place. Great Britain's practice always has been, it was pointed out, to place a commissioned naval officer in command of converted merchantmen which are commandeered only in home ports and to equip the vessel with guns. According to the report of an official investigation by government officials before the Lusitania was granted clearance from New York, the ship carried no guns, mounted or unmounted. Moreover, there has been an agreement for several months between the United States and Great Britain that no British merchant ships leaving American ports shall carry any guns.

The argument in the German note that the Lusitania carried Canadian troops and ammunition is regarded by officials as irrelevant for they declare it is well known that no Canadian troops could pass as an organized body over American soil, and the sailing of a few hundred individuals does not constitute an armed expedition under international law. Neither, it is contended has traffic in arms and ammunition been regarded as warranting the destruction of any unarmed merchantman without previous visit and search.

As to the citation of provisions of American law on the question of carrying passengers on ships transporting munitions of war, attention the American government ruled that the federal statutes applied not to was called to decisions in 1911, when cartridges, but to self-exploding material such as dynamite and nitroglycerine.

The German government's reference to the proposals made by the United States to secure the abandonment of submarine warfare by Germany through an agreement with Great Britain, whereby the latter would not interfere with foodstuffs to the civilian population of a belligerent was not unexpected. President Wilson has made it clear, however, that the issues raised by the sinking of the Lusitania and other violations of American rights on the high seas must be settled on their merits entirely apart from conditions arising in the relations of the United States with other belligerents.

Following is the text of the German note:

"The undersigned has the honor to submit to Ambassador Gerard the following answer to the communication of May 15 regarding the injury to American interests through German submarine warfare.

"The imperial government has subjected the communication of the American government to a thorough investigation. It entertains also a keen wish to co-operate in a frank and friendly way in clearing up a possible misunderstanding which may have arisen in the relations between the two governments through the events mentioned by the American government.

"Regarding, firstly, the cases of the American steamers Cushing and Guilford, the American embassy has already been informed that the German government has no intention of submitting neutral ships in the war zone, which are guilty of no hostile acts, to attacks by a submarine or submarines or aviators. On the contrary, the German forces have repeatedly been instructed most specifically to avoid attacks on such ships.

State department officials compared today the official text of the German note with the text as made public in press dispatches.

"The text of the official dispatch differs in some of the phraseology," it was explained, "but there is no difference whatever in the sense conveyed."

The difference is attributed to the fact that the official and unofficial translations were made by different persons with resulting unavoidable differences in the English wording.

"If neutral ships in recent months have suffered through the German submarine warfare, owing to mistakes in identification, it is a question of quite isolated and exceptional cases, which can be attributed to the British government's abuse of flags, together with the suspicious or culpable behavior of the masters of the ships.

"The German government, in all cases in which it has been shown by its investigations that a neutral ship, not itself at fault, was damaged by German submarines or aviators, has expressed its regret over the unfortunate accident, and, if justified by conditions, has offered indemnifications.

"The cases of the Cushing and Guilford will be treated on the same principles. An investigation of both cases is in progress, the result of which will presently be communicated to the embassy. The investigation can, if necessary, be supplemented by an international commission of inquiry, as provided by article 111 of The Hague agreement of Oct. 18, 1907.

"When sinking the British steamer Falaba, the commander of the German submarine had the intention of allowing the passengers and crew a full opportunity for a safe escape. Only when the master did not obey the order to heave-to, but fled and summoned help by rocket signals, did the German commander order (Continued on Page 6, Col. 2.)

EXPLODED ABOARD A SCOW AT SEATTLE, BLOWING IT INTO FRAGMENTS.

Detectives Guarding Loading of War Munitions for Russia, Have no Clue to Cause.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Seattle, Wash., May 31.—Police and private detectives employed by the Russian government to guard vessels loading munitions of war for Russia, were busy today endeavoring to learn the cause of the explosion Sunday morning of 15 tons of dynamite aboard a scow anchored in the bay. Except for the statement of private detectives that for two weeks they have been watching for two men who, it is alleged, were coming to Puget Sound to destroy ammunition carriers, there was little for the police to work on.

The scow was blown into fragments and no trace has been found of a watchman employed Saturday to guard the dynamite over night.

While detectives were engaged in seeking to determine the cause of the explosion, many workmen began replacing 350 plate glass windows in the Seattle business district shattered by the explosion. The damage from this source was estimated at $40,000, while injury to several large wooden buildings on the waterfront nearest the scene of the explosion added $10,000 more to the loss.

SUBMARINES ARE LATELY KEPT BUSY

While Germany Was Ostensibly Preparing Answer To American Note

SIX VESSELS OF CONSIDERABLE SIZE SENT TO BOTTOM

AND SIX LIVES ARE LOST

This is Considered Significant Considering the Delay in Giving Reply to the United States' Representations on the Lusitania—French Advance in West.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
London, May 31.—German submarines have been unusually busy while the German foreign office was engaged in the preparation of its answer to the Washington note on the Lusitania incident. The last few days, it is pointed out in London, provided them with a heavy bag of big merchant ships. These include the steamer Ethiope 3700 tons, and the Tullochmoor, 3500 tons which were sunk by submarines Friday. In the approaches to the English channel. On Saturday, the British steamer Ping Suey, belonging to the Holt line, was attacked twice by German undersea boats within the space of five hours, but she succeeded in escaping into Plymouth. Another victim was the steamer Glenlee of 4,000 tons, which was sunk somewhere between the British and French coasts recently. In the North Sea, a German submarine sent the Russian ship Mars to the bottom a few days ago, and the losses of the British steamers Spennimoor and Cadeby also have been reported. Thus, within the space of three days, six ships of considerable size have been sent to the bottom by German submarines and six lives have been lost. Furthermore, the transatlantic line Megantic had a narrow escape from an attack by a German submersible.

London observers are drawing attention to these cases, particularly in connection with the presentation of the German note.

The full along the western battle front has been broken by the French who claim to have taken a group of German trenches in the Pilkein region and to have made good progress north of Arras.

With British co-operation they appear to have made slight progress north of La Bassée.

After repeated and costly repulses, the Germans for the time being seem to have abandoned their attempts to take Ypres. During the last week, the Germans have made only slight gains in the neighborhood of this salient.

Except for the news of the movement of warships which appear to be searching for German submarine bases, little definite information has come to hand from the Dardanelles. Certain dispatches by way of Athens claim that many lines of Turkish trenches on the Gallipoli peninsula have been taken during the past week.

The situation along the River San in the vicinity of Przemyśl appears for the moment to be unchanged.

COFFEY-FLYNN BOUT TO BE HELD IN THE OPEN AIR

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, May 31.—Local followers of boxing manifested more than the usual interest in the 10-round bout between Jim Coffey and Jim Flynn, which is to inaugurate open-air boxing at the Brighton Beach race track tonight, owing to the fact that Coffey has received a partial promise of a match with Jess Willard on Labor Day if he wins tonight's fight. An opportunity to try for the world championship is expected to put Coffey on his mettle. The Dublin giant has fought Flynn twice before and stopped the Pueblo freeman in four rounds in their last encounter.

LABOR STATISTICS OF LARGE CITIES.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, May 31.—More than eleven wage earners in every hundred were out of employment and about 16 of the remainder were working only part time during March and the early part of April in 15 of the important cities of the country, the bureau of labor statistics announced today, in a report of unemployment.

Returns of a canvass of 399,881 families, including 644,358 wage earners, showed 73,800 or 11.5 per cent wholly unemployed and 106,652 or 16.6 per cent without full employment.

W. A. ASHBROOK'S PRESENT DISTRICT CHANGED BY BILL

According to the Sprague bill passed by the last legislature the present congressional district, in which Licking county is situated, represented by Hon. W. A. Ashbrook, has been changed and is now the Fourteenth district, and consists of Licking, Coshocton, Knox, Morrow and Marion county.

Warren G. Harding, elected last fall to the United States Senate is a resident of Marion.

The districts are as follows:

First—Eastern part of Hamilton county.

Second—Western part of Hamilton county.

Third—Montgomery, Preble and Butler.

Seventh—Clarke, Miami, Greene, Madison and Pickaway.

Eighth—Hancock, Hardin, Logan, Union, Delaware and Champaign.

Ninth—Lucas, Ottawa, Sandusky and Erie.

Tenth—Scioto, Adams, Pike, Vinton, Jackson, Gallia and Lawrence.

Eleventh—Fairfield, Hocking, Perry, Athens and Meigs.

Twelfth—Franklin.

Eighteenth—Stark, Carroll and Tuscarawas.

Nineteenth—Mahoning, Ashtabula and Trumbull.

Twentieth—Western part of Cleveland.

Twenty-first—Eastern part of Cleveland.

Twenty-second—Balance of Cuyahoga, Geauga and Lake.

Last fall Congressman Ashbrook carried the seventeenth district by a plurality of 8166 votes. Three of those counties remain in the fourteenth district, Licking, Coshocton and Knox. Those three counties gave Mr. Ashbrook over his Republican opponent a majority of 4606. The other two counties, Marion and Morrow may cut this down just a little as Marion gave the Democratic congressman a plurality of about 500 while Morrow gave the Republican congressman a plurality of about 1200.

The new fourteenth district therefore should give under normal conditions a plurality of at least 5000. Mr. John A. Key is serving as the congressman from the present fourteenth district, which includes Marion and Morrow counties.

Congressman Ashbrook when interviewed by an Advocate representative this morning said: "I am more than pleased with the new fourteenth district. It is Democratic by a good majority and with the three counties in the present seventeenth district should insure me an easy victory at the primary. I am not unacquainted in the two new counties and my record in congress will assure me many new friends."

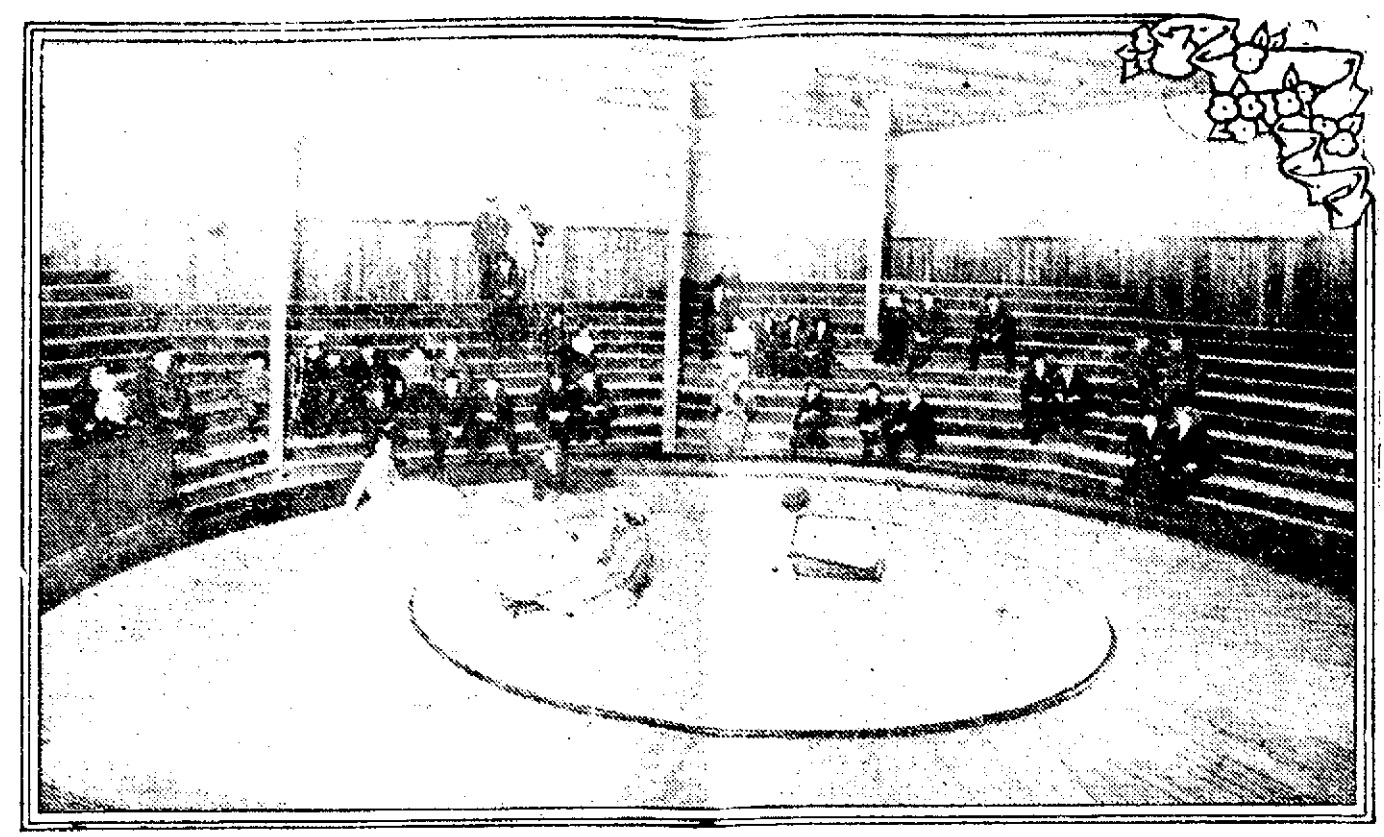

"So you attended the banquet last night, eh?" said the man who is fond of good eating. "I suppose the table groaned under all the delicacies of the season." "Yes," replied the dyspeptic, sadly. "So did I afterward."

BUCKEYE PARK NOW OPEN FOR THE SUMMER

Buckeye Lake Park was opened for the summer season yesterday and in spite of the inclement and disagreeable weather quite a crowd was present throughout the day.

The morning cars, both from Columbus and Newark, carried many passengers, and in the afternoon the cars were comfortably filled. Manager William D. Harris had everything arranged for the comfort of his guests. He has moved the ice cream and soft drink tables from the pavilion to a new building which he erected for that purpose, and this allows much more space for the spectators and more room for the dancer, a thing which will certainly be appreciated.

All the concessions were in full blast yesterday, and in spite of the rain which fell intermittently throughout the afternoon a holiday air prevailed. The skating rink was liberally patronized and this pleasant sport and exercise seems to be having a wonderful revival. The floors had been placed in the best of condition and several hundred pairs of new skates have been added to the rink equipment. It, no doubt, will prove to be a popular place of recreation throughout the summer.

ABE MARTIN

FURNISHING UNCLE SAM HIS "CHEW"

How Millions of Pounds of Virginia and Kentucky Tobacco Are Annually Transformed Into The Plug of Commerce

A GIGANTIC BUSINESS

An Industry, Occupying the World's Largest Tobacco Plant, the Expert Efforts of 5,000 Workpeople, Built Upon a Policy of Perfect Cleanliness and Scientific Efficiency

In St. Louis is located the largest tobacco factory in the world, where the world's largest selling brand and many other famous tobacco products are made. This factory employs about 5,000 people and has a factory frontage of a full mile. Here chewing tobacco is produced to the extent of about eighty-five million pounds a year, one brand alone requiring twenty-five million pounds a year.

The care that is taken to insure cleanliness puts this plant upon a high plane of sanitary and hygienic efficiency. It would be a revelation to the average user of tobacco to go through a plant of this kind. The most fastidious housewife could scarcely be more careful of her floors, her tables and culinary equipment than the managers of this tobacco factory are of every detail of equipment.

Scientific Methods

One of the first things the visitor observes is a scientific laboratory which was set up by an expert from a government department, through whose efficiency the most modern mechanical and chemical devices for the testing of tobacco were installed.

Nothing is taken for granted—all "casing" substances used in connection with the manufacture of tobacco are carefully analyzed and must come up to a prescribed standard. By "casing" is meant the sweeteners, such as licorice, sugar, honey, and many delicious combinations which are kept secret. Practically all the work in handling tobacco is done by machinery, where in former years it was a matter of human handling.

In other ways the manufacture of tobacco has kept pace with modern methods of cleanliness and hygiene. For example, every night the vats in which the tobacco and the "casing" are compounded are cleaned while with scalding water until the work looks like the wood work in the Care of Employees

Care of the employees is another feature which sets this factory apart from the common run and puts it right in line with modern methods. There is an emergency hospital right in the building. Here a trained nurse is in constant attendance, and a doctor always on call. It is an interesting fact that in tobacco manufacturing, good health is the rule. Many doctors say that tobacco is a permanent disinfectant—it is certain that epidemic of contagious diseases are practically unknown among those employed in tobacco manufacturing.

The company provides every employee with free insurance. This takes the form of the payment of bounty to the family of each one who dies while in the firm's employ, to an amount not exceeding $500. This means a full year's salary at $50 a week to those carrying this amount and union.

When the employees of the company are ill a doctor is sent to them without charge. The old employees who can no longer do active work are given cash pensions. In addition, the "safety first" program is carried out. A complete system of sprinkler guards against fire.

Wherever there is danger of hands coming in contact with machinery, automatic guards are made a permanent part of the equipment.

There are shower baths for all the men and closest where they can keep the clothes in which they work, so that they never wear the same clothes in the factory and on the street.

Each building in the St. Louis establishment has light from all four sides, there being eight buildings in all, each with 220 feet frontage.

Another efficiency feature is the maintenance of a corps of mechanics and artisans. The plant has its own plumbers, painters, carpenters, blacksmiths, etc.—it is a world in itself.

Eternal vigilance on the part of all these men, from the managers down to the lowliest, keeps the plant always in the best of condition. All take a "housekeeping pride" in the appearance of the place. All "chase the dirt." There are special rewards for vigilance.

Electric, steam and hydraulic machinery has been installed wherever possible in order to make for efficiency. An immense cold storage plant holds all the ingredients that are used. Scrubbers on all floors constantly keep the place clean.

The tobacco is put up in wooden boxes that are made on the place. They have machines there that make and nail 5000 boxes an hour each.

How the Work Is Done

In this, the largest tobacco industry in the world, the same men who have been on the job over forty years (doing one thing)—and they have become the most expert in the world. The "order" men are especially expert. By "order" is meant the condition of moisture. The "order" must be just right—if it is too moist it will not do, and if it is too dry it will not do.

Tobacco quality is judged, first, by the "order" of the wrapper, so that it will not break and yet not be wet; second, the "order" of the filler, which is arrived at by the sense of feel; third, that it is manufactured properly—not lumpy, not too much in the center, so that every man who buys a piece may be sure of getting his full 6 cents' worth; fourth, seeing that the wrapper is on in good shape, realizing that the heavy pressing the plug will go through will affect its general character; fifth, that the weight is all right—it being necessary always to give full value.

Where the Tobacco Comes From

The tobacco comes from Virginia and Kentucky in hogheads and is aged in these hogheads in a large warehouse during a period of several years. From Virginia comes the famous Burley tobacco, which is probably in greater use than any other type of tobacco grown. Virginia tobacco is used for the wrappers where light plug is required.

The tobacco is first baled in bins and properly dried. It is then stemmed by almost human stemming machines. Certain types of tobacco require hand stripping, which means that the soft part of the leaf is stripped from the woody stem and it is then turned over to the twisters, who roll it and dry it. The tobacco is then racked and searched in order that it will be tobacco, all tobacco, and nothing but tobacco.

It is then carried automatically to the vats, where it is mixed with the casing. The casing is distributed through the tobacco by means of an automatic sprayer. The tobacco in this form is placed on the automatic conveyors and inspected for the seventh or eighth time, in the meantime permitting the casing to work into the leaf. Then it is fed into machines which turn it out in the plug form, and the plug is wrapped with Virginia wrapper if that be the color and texture desired. In other cases Kentucky Burley leaf is used.

The Plugs Are Automatically Pressed

After they have been wrapped, the plugs go into the dryer for an hour and a half, where surplus moisture is removed. They are then weighed and checked, and from this go to immense hydraulic machines, where, automatically, they are pressed into the right shape and the tags attached.

The average man who goes through the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company's factory comes out amazed not only at the care that is exercised in the manufacture of the brands and the determined observance of cleanliness—more, he is astounded that he can buy a plug of tobacco for 5 cents or 10 cents after having seen the many processes through which it goes, from its growth in the field to its final boxing and shipping. It is in this great factory that STAR—the world's largest selling brand—is made.

Licking, Coshocton, Knox, Marion and Morrow are the five counties comprising the new fourteenth congressional district, according to the Republican gerrymander which through the extraordinary efforts of Governor Frank B. Willis was passed by the Ohio legislature Saturday night. The bill was passed by the narrowest of margins in each branch of the general assembly. Through the action of the legislators, the congressional redistricting made by the legislature in 1913 is abandoned and the counties and rearranged on lines that are pleasing to Governor Willis. By the way, Governor Frank B. Willis is the same Frank B. Willis who, as a candidate last fall, said that the executive should keep hands off the legislative branch of the state government. Governor Willis not only didn't keep hands off but he used both feet.

Heretofore Licking county has been in the seventeenth congressional district. In 1913, Delaware, Knox, Ashtabula and Wayne were joined with Coshocton and Licking to make the new seventeenth district. In the present arrangement Licking keeps its association with Knox and Coshocton and joins with Morrow and Marion.

Mayonnaise Made in America.

An unexpected result of Italy's entering the war of the powers may be the vast growth of the olive industry in the southern states. Eating olive oil with one's dinner as a matter of course seems to have been an acquired taste in America. It is not so long since lettuce and tomatoes were universally dressed with sugar and vinegar on our tables, and olive oil was a medicine only. But in the past few years Americans have learned to know and like Italian cooking. The various forms of macaroni are in high favor, and salads without some form of oil dressing are almost unknown.

And now, Italy, as a measure of conservation, has placed an embargo on the exportation of olive oil. The last crop was small, and she needs every bit of it. Some of our table oil comes from France, some from California, but the bulk of what we use comes from the olive groves of Italy. Cottonseed oil has its uses, and they are many, but it is absurd to speak of substituting it as a table oil. No one who is fond of the olive product will tolerate it in its place.

Instead of substituting cottonseed oil for olive oil, why not grow olive trees instead of cotton? There is a great deal of good olive-producing country untended. The olive industry try is only a fraction of what it might be. Many a household has learned in the last year or two when the price of butter soared high into the forties that olive oil has many advantages over butter in cooking. Hardly a scratch has yet been made on the possible consumption of olives and olive oil. They are food products of the highest value. Why not grow our own?

Italian Commerce and War.

(New York Journal of Commerce.)

It remains to be seen how seriously the foreign trade of Italy will be disturbed by the war. The total exports from Italy in 1913, the latest available date of returns, were nearly $500,000,000, imports during the same period being over $700,000,000. Before the war Italy's imports and exports were larger with Germany than with any other nation. Italy also had a large commerce with Austria-Hungary. Great Britain and the United States ranked, however, next to Germany in imports and exports. Italy's largest articles of import in 1913 were wheat, $80,000,000, nearly an equal amount in coal and over $60,000,000 in cotton with about $25,000,000 in hides. Italy's principal exports were raw silk nearly $80,000,000, cotton manufactures about $40,000,000, dried fruits over $25,000,000 and silk manufactures about $20,000,000.

Italy also has a mercantile marine of considerable and rapidly-increasing importance, the total tonnage, sail and steam, reported at the end of 1912 being 1,107,000 tons; since when there have been important additions. The last reported total clearances at Italian ports were over 56,000,000 tons annually. Outside of Germany and Austria-Hungary, Italy's foreign commerce will be less liable to derangement than some of the other belligerents, her enemies having much less power for injuring at sea than Italy herself.

Lonely Diplomats.

(Springfield Republican.)

There are three lonely representatives of great powers in Washington. The modernizing of diplomatic methods will not soon, it ever, extend to the relieving of such a situation as that in which Count Johann Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, and Abdul Hak Hussein Bey, first secretary of the Turkish Embassy, find themselves. With the representatives of governments with which the three countries are at war they can have no relations, public or personal. They are, therefore, obliged to give up social intercourse with practically all European diplomats outside of the trio.

Functions at which envoys of the enemy are likely to be met these men must avoid. Club life is only open to them upon the condition that when a representative of an enemy nation enters a room in which they may be they quit it. At most only the most formal of bows can be exchanged. In the light of common sense, it seems a stilted thing that the personal friendships between diplomats, often the growth of years, must be broken off when war comes, but it is the ancient rule which persists. The Ambassadors of Germany and of France in Washington have often sat side by side at dinners and enjoyed the proximity, but the war has made them strangers.

Now that Italy has joined the allies in the mighty war, Count Di Cellerio, the Italian Ambassador, has become the open enemy of the lonely three. If the Count should chance to meet any one of them at the State Department or upon the street no sign of recognition would be given. Action by the home government dominates the representative of that government wherever he may be, and the personality is entirely sunk in the public official.

The Great War.

Millions of lives have been sacrificed and billions of money have been squandered, but no invading foe has placed foot upon German soil, and no reversal of arms has served to temper the German spirit, writes George Harvey in the North American Review for June. Mr. Harvey gives a calm and dispassionate summary of the chances for and against the allies, saying in part: The anticipated disaffection of Socialists and peace-seekers has failed to materialize. The mighty military machine seems only to have hardened ed into a yet greater efficiency. Prussia still dominates the empire, and the certainty of quick triumph which at first possessed the minds of her people has been supplanted by a determination never to be beaten which is even more formidable. There is no lack of money or munitions of war; new submarines are being built in greater numbers and more rapidly than by the allies; despite pretenses to the contrary for political effect, food is plentiful and exceptional harvests seem assured; briefly, the possibility of conquering Germany is more remote today than it was at the beginning of the war. To feign the contrary is to ignore the facts.

The bitter truth is that in all large essentials the hopes of the allies have been dissipated one after another. France was to occupy her lost provinces forthwith; she is still fighting defensively upon her own soil. Unprepared Britain was to raise and train an immense army for service in Flanders. Time was "fighting for the allies." The real war was to begin in May. In point of fact, it began earlier at Nueve Chapelle, where apparent victory was made appalling disasters by incompetent British generalship, and June finds Germany a steady gainer in the past six weeks.

At last—and in this there may lie a gleam of hope—England is beginning to realize that she cannot reasonably expect to "muddle through." Hatred and conscription seems to have become an inevitable necessity. The lower classes are far from enthusiastic; thousands are reconciled to the betterment of their hard lot through the war-time increases in wages; workmen are either scarce or unwilling to perform their part. The government is trying to hold itself up by its bootstraps.

Where the great British fleet is or what it is doing except to bury itself in battleships nobody knows. It is now generally conceded that adequate preparation for the futile attack upon the forts of the Dardanelles had not been made and the ships lost were sacrificed to no purpose. The badly German wasps circumnavigate the British Isles without let or hindrance. Already 51 merchantmen and trawlers have been sent to the bottom, and despite official warnings from the German government, there could not be or at any rate there was not spared from the great number of warships a single convoy for the doomed Lusitania. It is to be wondered at that the Westliche Post should declare that "never before has the utility of the British navy been exposed so pitifully," and that Dr. Eugene Kappeler, one of our "exhilarated German professors," should add, exultantly, that "the torpedoing of the Lusitania proves two things: First, that Germany is determined and has the power to crush any nation that tries to starve her out; second, that the prestige of the English navy is gone for ever!"

It is still, as we said ten months ago, "inconceivable that Germany shall triumph," but it is no less certain, from the standpoint of the allies, that the prospect is laden with gloom and foreboding and that the end is afar off.

TAKE A LOOK IF YOU HAVE TIME

No matter how long a man stays there are always people who are surprised to learn that he has been away.

A man becomes a loafer first and an anarchist afterwards.

Doctors depend upon nature, sick people upon medicine.

If you really wish to insult a man ask him to be identified.

If a boy waits until his mother decides he is old enough to be trusted with a gun he will never go hunting.

Nearly every man who has a bad temper to see it made a study in the public schools.

Every bride has two lists. One is made up of those who sent presents and the other of those who didn't.

A man can stand other intimate personal disclosures with a good deal of nonchalance, but the sight of a woman's bare feet always shocks him.

THE DILERS.

Men line against the hames, and sweat till they're old and gray, supporting the stall-fed dames who idle their years away. We've bred up a little race of women who have no care, except for emerald face, or sea-green shade of hair, who always are richly gowned and wearing imported lids, who carry their poodles round, preferring the poodle to the ladies, and husbands exhaust their frames and strain till their journey's done, supporting the stall-fed dames, who never have toiled or spun. We've placed in this world to work, to harvest, our crop of prunes; Jehovah abhors the shirk, in gown or in trousers. The loafers in gams and silk are bad as the fragrant vags, who pilfer and beg and hilk, and gire in their larded rags. The loafers at bridge whist games, the loafers at purple teas, the hand-painted stall-fed dames, are chains on the workers' knees. The women who cook and sew, the women who manage homes, who have no desire to grow green hair on enameled domes, how noble and good they seem, how wholesome and sane their aim, compared with that human scum, the brass-mounted, stall-fed dame!

Find Wilson Worthy.

The Detroit Times, which supported Roosevelt in 1912, now makes the editorial statement that Progressives find Wilson worthy of their support. After looking the national political field over this Progressive paper sums up by saying: "It cannot be denied that it is President Wilson, who is attracting to his aid those thinking, forward-looking, idealistic men who, in 1912, voted not so much for Colonel Roosevelt as for the movement which he represented. —Springfield Republic.

The Hearts of His People

Said Shailer Mathews, of Chicago University, before the Sunday evening Club the other night.

"After this moment, when the nation faces one of the gravest crisis in its career, I am sure the heart of the American people goes out to the simple, earnest man at Washington upon whom falls the burden of finding a solution for the problem confronting us."

We believe that the heart of every American will echo Dean Mathews' words.

From one end of the country to the other has come a message of the people that they trust their President, that they are supporting him in the course he takes.

But the confidence brings a great burden of responsibility. We believe that the American people would like to add a message of love and sympathy—that they would say:

"Our hearts are with you, Woodrow Wilson. We know the heavy load you carry; we know that our very trust in you, our willingness to leave to you the decision of great events adds to the weight of your responsibility. We remember, too, that your heart is often heavy with your own grief and loneliness. Be sure that you have not alone our confidence in you as President, but our love and sympathy for Woodrow Wilson, the man, who's bearing our burden." —Milwaukee Journal.

Drifting Mines.

Both the British and German governments assert that their sea mines are so constructed that they cannot blow up when they break away from their anchorage and go adrift. This, indeed, is a requirement of the London Declaration, which embodies the law of nations on the subject. But drifting mines have been known to explode, notwithstanding the fact that triggers are automatically set at "safety" when they break loose. The Holland-American steamer Noordam, for instance, had part of her stern blown off early in December last by a detached mine of unknown nationality. Her propeller is supposed to have struck the mine; and no high explosive could be safely subjected to the impact of such a blow. Anyhow, it is not quite accurate to say that the drifting mine "cannot blow up." —Philadelphia Record.

Peace In Europe Will Be Followed by Trade War Upon the United States

By WILLARD D. STRAIGHT, of J. P. Morgan & Co.

FROM the American point of view the most important result of the war will be not the possible temporary financial, commercial and industrial embarrassment of Europe, but the impetus which has been given to more effective national organization in Great Britain and France as well as in Germany.

There will be a readjustment of world affairs unparalleled in history. The future of Europe, of Asia and Africa will be settled for some time to come, and it is INCONCEIVABLE THAT THE AMERICAS WILL NOT BE INTIMATELY AFFECTED BY THIS FORTHCOMING INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS.

Under the Monroe doctrine we have been granted a comparatively free hand to deal with matters in the American hemisphere because of the delicate balance of European rivalries.

On the conclusion of hostilities, however, this situation will no longer exist. We may take it for granted that we, too, shall then be asked for an accounting. We shall either have to fulfill or forego the responsibilities which we have, in the eyes of the world at least, assumed for the behavior of our southern neighbors. We cannot eat our cake and have it.

ONCE THE WAR IS OVER IT WILL NOT BE LONG BEFORE EUROPE, COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIALLY BETTER ORGANIZED THAN BEFORE, WILL AGGRESSIVELY UNDERTAKE TO RECOUP ITSELF FOR ITS LOSSES BY EXTENDING AND DEVELOPING ITS FOREIGN TRADE.

But this girl needed money, and she stuck right to her train, And stood on top of freight cars and held on with might and main. One day the train was speeding from Grass Crossing to Hay Ridge. The girl was standing up on top as they approached a bridge. It was a brand new bridge, but she did not know it was there. And when the train passed under it she hit it fair and square. The bridge could not withstand the shock and fell down with a crash. And as it fell, it rumbled up the corn fed girl's new snash. A wrecking train arrived, and there an awful mess was found. But at her post of duty stood the brave girl, safe and sound. The boss mechanic said: "See, here, you're fixed, you big fat coot! For you have wrecked this bridge and you must hunt another job."

The girl climbed down from that car roof, and tears were in her eye. And as she faced that brutal man she made this here reply:

Miss Blanche Poyson, Largest Policewoman at the Exposition

Miss Blanche Poyson belongs the honor of being the only real special policeman in the United States. Her star, bearing the inscription "Special Police, Toyland G. U.," is registered at the city hall, in San Francisco. Miss Poyson, who stands 6 feet 4 inches without her boots, maintains law and order at "Toyland Grown Up," on the Zone, at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. Miss Poyson weighs 235 pounds, she is but twenty-four years of age, and despite her official position, is as delightful a young woman as one will meet in a long day of sightseeing on the Zone. She is enthusiastic over her work and keeps watch on the great throngs which visit Toyland day and night. Miss Poyson has presided with wonderful success over crowds of many thousands of persons. The two midlets beside Miss Poyson have taken great fancy to the "copette," and the three have become fast friends during their off hours at Toyland.

Toyland Grown Up, where Miss Poyson reigns, is one of the largest and most costly concessions on the great amusement thoroughfare. It was built at a cost of $355,000 and covers 14 acres. All the toys of the story books read by youngsters and grownups are to be seen there in monster proportions, and in this land of romance and enchantment, with its giant toys, the giant policeman presides with dignity and efficiency.

Your Boys and Girls

We have all heard mothers answer their children's questions with a snappish reply or silence them altogether. If a child is intelligent enough to ask an intelligent question, he should receive an intelligent answer and never be told to keep quiet or not to ask any questions. Alert boys and girls crave knowledge and they have a mad desire to know about everything they see or hear.

This desire should be encouraged as far as it is possible and the reply should always be given in a manner that will encourage the child to ask more questions. You will soon observe in many instances that your children's questions will be brighter than your reply, which may give you a needed hint that you, yourself, have not kept up with the times in general knowledge.

Catherine Darlington.

Catherine Darlington, second daughter of Meredith Darlington and Susan Forry Darlington, was born in the old Darlington homestead, at the corner of Hudson avenue and Locust street, in Newark, Ohio, on the 9th day of January, 1825, and therefore at her death, May 24th, 1915, was the oldest native resident of the city of Newark.

Of a family of eight children, she is survived by one brother, Daniel C. Darlington, of this city, aged 88 years, and one sister, Mrs. Evaline Darlington Moore, aged 94 of Covington, Ind. Her father, Meredith Darlington, came to this town from Virginia, in 1816, and her mother, from Pennsylvania, in 1806.

Miss Darlington has, during her life, always been identified with the Presbyterian church, and, with her parents, was liberal to church and charitable causes. She was devoted to her home and singularly charming in her manner. Her aspirations were to maintain in her modest way the high social and moral standing which her family had established, not thoughtful of the present day feminine diversions.

Her family has established both civic and military records, of which she was proud. Her Uncle Joseph Darlington was a member of the First Constitutional Convention in 1802 and afterwards was clerk of Adams county, then including a number of other counties, from 1802 to 1851, when the new constitution was adopted. At that time the duties of the probate court and clerk of courts were united.

Her Uncles George, Carry, Newton and Rees Darlington with Bradley Buckingham, their brother-in-law, were the leading business men of this city during the construction of the Ohio canal.

Her brother William Darlington, was captain of the 76th regiment, O. V. I., and noted for his bravery, her brother Rees E. Darlington was a lieutenant and afterward a captain in the Civil War; Daniel C. Darlington is a Mexican veteran, a Civil War veteran and perhaps the best posted and most intelligent conversationalist on the political history of our country and state now living in our city.

Her nephew, William C. Moore and his wife of Columbus, rendered every possible assistance during her late illness and the bereavement occasioned by the loss of her sister, Mariah, who preceded her only a short time ago.

It is with pleasure that we note that she maintained her faculties to the last and with serene composure looked out upon the future as if entering a new home and without a murmur accepted the common fate of all.

In Milady's Boudoir

BY GWEN BEARS.

For the stout woman who suffers in hot weather let me express the cheering thought that it is better to be plump and uncomfortable than thin and unhealthy. Isn't it easy to understand that a remedy strong enough to take off flesh quickly will also tear down muscles and tissues?

The only absolutely safe and sure way to acquire a beautiful, lithe body is to adopt diet and a well-planned system of exercise. Success depends entirely upon perseverance. No matter how carefully the diet is planned it will amount to nothing unless it is religiously followed. First of all a taboo should be placed upon all fat meats. That means pork in all forms, fat meat, mutton, lamb, veal, fat poultry or game. Eat roast beef or steak, but have it lean, and be sure that it is well cooked. Do not eat meat oftener than once a day. Eat plenty of eggs, but drink no milk. Cut out all tea and coffee and substitute water or lemonade.

Eat all the vegetables you wish, providing they are not prepared with a cream or butter sauce. Acid fruits are flesh reducers. Eat all the oranges or grapefruit you wish, but do not contract the effect of the acid with sugar. Absolutely all sweetened dishes must be banned, for sugar is one of the greatest single fattening agents known.

Take at least half an hour's walk every day and don't walk half heartedly. If possible do your walking at the same time every day.

Sleep is fattening, but, of course, you should get a sufficient amount of sleep. Seven hours out of the twenty-four is enough for the healthy person, but if very tired eight hours will do no harm.

Beauty does not all consist of personal appearance. Manners, personality, graceful gestures, and movements, and your voice all enter in to face.

make your whole being attractive and interesting. There is one situation, occurring everyday, however, when your attractiveness depends on just one thing; your voice. I refer to telephonic conversation.

There are many well bred women who seem to shed all their manners when talking over the wire, and probably among your own circle of friends there are several such. The person who does the calling usually has to take the initiative, but surely the "callee" can help things along somewhat and grease the wheels, as it were, by first a purely formal but agreeable "hello" and then, when the callers "identity" is manifest, a pleasant "good morning" or some little pleasant exclamation to a cheery greeting as if you were glad to hear from her.

There is Mrs. C who may never have visited your home but has called you up frequently. "I want to speak to Miss Jones," are the words with which Mrs. C. opens the conversation. Now if Mrs. C. called at your house and your mother answered the door, Mrs. C. would on sight assume her to be a member of the family and would thereupon bow, smile and say politely: "Is Miss Jones at home?" and she might even venture if she fancied she caught a family resemblance: "This is Mrs. Jones, is it not?"

But over the telephone Mrs. C. assumes any voice not personally known to her must be apurtenant either to a boy at the switchboard or "Central" to neither of whom, of course, any feelings are attributed. "Again are we always civil to 'Central'?" If through some error we are unnecessarily called to the phone are we not apt to be pretty savage in our report? It pays to be polite over the telephone as we would be if we met the same persons face to face.

MEMORIAL DAY WAS OBSERVED IN THIS CITY

MILITARY AND PATRIOTIC BODIES REMEMBER THE AN-NUAL OCCASION

By Strewing Flowers Upon the Graves of Soldiers in Both Newark Cemeteries.

PRICE OF FLOWERS,
EXCEPT PEONIES,
WAS NOT SO HIGH.

The sun refused to co-operate with the gardeners and florists this year and as a result there was a great scarcity of flowers especially garden flowers. Peonies are usually one of the standard flowers for Memorial Day decorations as it is in season at this time. They are not grown under glass, however, and the backward season has caused a great scarcity of them. The price went to $1.50 a dozen, and it was impossible to procure them even at that figure. One florist had 3,000 peony blooms but was able to cut only about 75 this year. The prices of other flowers, were not as high as last year. Carnations this year sold for 75 cents, while last year they commanded $1.00 a dozen. Other prices remained comparatively normal, although the demand for flowers far exceeded that of last year.

While the weather this morning was generally threatening and the sun continued to hide behind thin clouds, there was a noticeable rise in temperature and in the absence of rain, the day was better than might have been expected. Local military and patriotic bodies celebrated the day as Memorial day, the usual parade and program being carried out. Promptly at 9:30 o'clock, the parade to the cemetery, where the program of decorating the graves of soldiers was carried out, started from the Memorial building in Second street.

The Newark police department, in new caps and uniforms headed the procession, followed by the Buckeye Band. Company B of the old guard, augmented by a number of United States naval men either discharged or on furlough came next in the line of march.

A company of the local Knights of St. John in full uniform. Company G, Ohio National Guard and the members of the local organization of Romanians came next in order. The Old Guard drum corps was also in the line of march.

A large number of automobiles filled with citizens who were to aid in the decoration of graves brought up at the end of the line.

The line of march circled the square and went east in Main street to Cedar and thence to the cemetery where the programs was carried out.

At Cedar Hill, the graves of 653 soldiers were decorated by the committee in charge. Earlier in the morning the graves of 55 soldiers at Mt. Calvary were decorated, a total of 706. During the past year 26 of those who at one time or another were in the military service of the government, died.

The G. A. R., the Sons and Daughters of Veterans, the United Spanish War Veterans the W. R. C. and other patriotic bodies took part in the program.

Rev. L. C. Sparks will deliver the memorial address this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Auditorium in Memorial building. The following program will be carried out at that time:

Assembly—by buglers.
America—by audience.
Invocation—Rev. C. H. Stull.
Music, quartet—Jos. W. Horner.
A. B. Painter, Bert O. Horton and Chas. B. Keller.
Reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg address—Maj. W. A. Irvine.
Battle Cry of Freedom—audience, led by Mrs. Helmke.
Drill—Old Guard and Co. G. O. N. G.
Vocal solo—Mrs. Ferguson.
Address—Rev. L. C. Sparks.
Music—Male quartet.
Music, Star Spangled Banner—audience, led by Mrs. Helmke.
Benediction—Rev. L. C. Sparks.
Taps.

At Mt. Calvary.
At 7:30 o'clock Monday morning a number of the Old Guard, the members of the drum corps, with autos bearing flowers, girls and the decorating squad left the city for Mt. Calvary cemetery.

Captain John Hiser and Lieutenant C. H. Rosebraugh were in charge of the details, and 58 soldiers graves were covered with flowers and the salute given.

MEMORIAL DAY IS OBSERVED AT HEBRON, SUNDAY

The Old Guard of this city in full uniform with the drum corps, participated in the annual memorial day exercises held at Hebron, O., Sunday afternoon. The Old Guard, accompanied by a number of local veterans, left over the interurban at 1 o'clock and on arrival at Hebron were met by an escort committee and a parade was formed and marched to the Methodist church where the exercises were held. Afterwards the cemetery was visited and the graves of comrades decorated.

PRESIDENT SENDS WREATHS TO GRAVES OF UNKNOWN DEAD.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, May 31.—President Wilson sent wreaths of flowers today to the graves of Washington, Grant, Harrison, McKinley and several other former presidents, and also to the graves of General Joseph Wheeler, the Confederate and Spanish war leader.

The graves at Arlington cemetery containing many unknown civil war dead, were signalled out by the President for a specially large wreath.

The crew and passengers by signals and megaphone to leave the ship within 10 minutes. He actually allowed them 28 minutes' time and fired the torpedo only when suspicious crafts were hesitating to the assistance of the Falaba.

Regarding the loss of life by the sinking of the British passenger steamer Lusitania, the German government has already expressed to the neutral governments concerned its keen regret that citizens of their states lost their lives.

"On this occasion the imperial government, however, cannot escape the impression that certain important facts having a direct bearing on the sinking of the Lusitania may have escaped the attention of the American government.

"In the interest of a clear and complete understanding, which is the aim of both governments, the imperial government considers it first necessary to convince itself that the information accessible to both governments about the facts of the case is complete and accurate.

"The government of the United States proceeds on the assumption that the Lusitania could be regarded as an ordinary armed merchantman. The imperial government allows itself in this connection to point out that the Lusitania was one of the largest and fastest of the British merchant ships, built with government funds, as an auxiliary cruiser, and carried expressly as such in the 'navy list' issued by the British admiralty.

"It is further known to the imperial government, from trustworthy reports from its agents and neutral passengers, that for a considerable time practically all the more valuable British merchantmen have been equipped with cannon and ammunition and other weapons and manned with persons who have been specially trained in serving guns. The Lusitania, too, according to information received here, had cannon aboard, which were mounted and concealed below decks.

"The imperial government further has the honor to direct the particular attention of the American government to the fact that the British admiralty, in a confidential instruction issued in February, 1915, recommended its mercantile shipping not only to seek protection under neutral flags and distinguishing marks, but also, while thus disguising, to attack German submarines by ramming. As a special incitation to merchantmen to destroy submarines, the British government also offered high prizes and has already paid such rewards.

"The imperial government, in view of these facts, indisputably known to it, is unable to regard British merchantmen in the zone of naval operations specified by the admiralty staff of the German navy, as 'undefended.' German commanders consequently, are no longer able to observe the customary regulations of the prize law, which they before always followed.

"Finally, the imperial government must point out particularly that the Lusitania on its last trip, as on earlier occasions, carried Canadian troops and war material, intended for the destruction of the brave German soldiers who are fulfilling their duty with self-sacrifice and devotion in the fatherland's service.

"The German government believes that it was acting in justified self-defense in seeking with all the means of warfare at its disposition to protect the lives of its soldiers by destroying ammunition intended for the enemy.

"The British shipping company must have been aware of the danger to which the passengers aboard the Lusitania were exposed under these conditions. The company, in embarking them notwithstanding this, attempted deliberately to use the lives of American citizens as protection for the ammunition aboard, and acted against the clear provisions of the American law, which expressly prohibits the forwarding of passengers on ships carrying ammunition, and provides a penalty therefore.

"The company, therefore, is wantonly guilty of the death of so many passengers.

"There can be no doubt, according to the definite report of the surviving commander, which is further confirmed by all other information, that the quick sinking of the Lusitania is primarily attributable to the explosion of the ammunition shipment, caused by a torpedo. The Lusitania's passengers would otherwise, in all human probability, have been saved.

"The imperial government considers the above-mentioned facts important enough to recommend them to the attentive examination of the American government.

"The imperial government, while withholding its final decision on the demands advanced in connection with the sinking of the Lusitania until receipt of an answer from the American government, feels impelled, in conclusion, to recall here and now that it took cognizance with satisfaction of the mediatory proposals submitted by the United States government to Berlin and London as a basis for a modus vivendi for conducting the maritime warfare between Germany and Great Britain. The imperial government, by its readiness to enter upon a discussion of these proposals, then demonstrated its good intentions in ample fashion. The realization of these proposals was defeated, as is well known, by the declinatory attitude of the British government.

"The undersigned takes occasion, etc. Jagow."

PRESIDENT WILL NOT MAKE A STUDY OF THE REPLY UNTIL NIGHT.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, May 31.—President Wilson went for a long automobile ride early this morning, after reading newspaper comment on the official text from the state department and as his day was broken by an engagement to speak at Memorial Day exercises in Arlington national cemetery, he will not begin a thorough study of the note before night.

An unusually large number of sightseers were gathered in front of the White House when the president went out to his motor. There was a scattering of handclapping and the president bowed and smiled in reply.

Officials refused to discuss the note before the president had an opportunity to consider his reply. It was expected that the question will be discussed thoroughly at tomorrow's cabinet meeting and that an answer will be forwarded to Berlin with as little delay as possible.

EDITORIALS IN THE
NEW YORK PAPERS CONDEMN THE REPLY.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, May 31.—The tone of the editorial comment on the German reply to the United States note on the Lusitania, may be judged from the following:

New York (New York) Times.—The German reply is not responsive to our demands. It does not promise that "clear and full understanding," as to a grave situation which President Wilson in his note declared to be desirable. * * *

The manner in which Berlin receives our representations in regard to the sinking of the Lusitania cannot fail to create a most disagreeable impression in this country, which the note's outward form of courtesy will not remove.

New York (New York) World.—The German note in response to the American protest against submarine attacks upon merchantmen does not meet the issue. It is worse than evasive. It is insincere, even pettifying. Regret will be felt everywhere in the United States that the affairs of a great people believed to be friendly have fallen into the hands of men capable of such desperate trifling.

New York (N. Y.) Tribune.—German's answer to our government's protest against the slaughter of its citizens, peacefully and lawfully going about their business on the high seas, will not satisfy American opinion. Courteous on the surface as Herr von Jagow's communication is, it does not strike the note which the people of this country hoped that it would strike.

New York (N. Y.) Press.—Berlin's answer to President Wilson's note is friendly, gracious and unsatisfactory. * * *

The point as made unmistakable in Mr. Wilson's note is that the von Tirpitz admiralty must stop slaughtering American citizens, whether in the case of a Gulfship or a Lusitania, whether by pairs or by scores. The Berlin foreign office speaks of a probable misapprehension on the part of our government as to the real character of the Lusitania. There is none; there could be none.

New York (N. Y.) Herald.—Germany has ignored the real issue presented by the American note of May 13. As was clearly set forth in that historical document, the attitude of the United States is not based upon any one of the series of events cited, but upon the principle involved in the method of warfare in which they were incidents. The United States stands today the champion of neutral rights and noncombatant humanity. In the case of Germany versus civilization, the United States holds a brief for civilization—and will to the end. Germany must respect the rights of non-combatants traveling upon the high seas.

New Yorker Herold (German).—The reply of the German government shows conclusively that Germany is most anxious to live at peace with America. That she desires to be known where she is in the wrong is but natural, and we think fair-minded men will concede that with the vessel mentioned on the navy list as an auxiliary cruiser, the presumption is strong that German submarine officers thought her armed and ready to offer resistance.

"GERMAN EFFRONTERY" IS COMMENT OF AN ENGLISH NEWSPAPER.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
London, May 31.—Commenting on the German reply to the American note concerning the Lusitania incident, the Manchester Guardian says:

"We do not know how long the war will last, but it is clear if Germany has her way that it will find the negotiations with the United States over the 'submarine blockade' still dragging out their interminable length. The German note does not even reply directly to the American request that such action as the sinking of the Lusitania should be discontinued. The note has actually the effrontery to add that the passengers would have been saved had it not been for the explosion of ammunition, which it is alleged was carried by the Lusitania as though the submarine had torpedoed the ship without intending actually to sink her.

"Almost as offensive is the suggestion that before the submarine can be condemned for not having given the crew and passengers time to escape, it must be shown that the Lusitania was duly equipped with life saving apparatus as ordered by the Titanic conference. In a word the United States is offered the prospect of a prolonged controversy over points of detail, but no disavowal of what has been done; no acceptance of the principles of naval warfare which she assumed Germany would be anxious to uphold and not a word as to any change of mind or policy. The submarine war is to be pursued as before and American ships and citizens may take the risk."

The Pall Mall Gazette says: "If the slaughter of the Lusitania's passengers is to be defended by the assertion that the vessel was carrying ammunition, we wonder what excuse is available for Saturday's attempt on the steamer Megantic (of the White Star line). That liner which was outward bound, cannot be worked into any theory of contraband on which Germany may base the right of murder. None of the quassiological excuses for frightfulness will stretch from one of these examples to the other."

Westminster Gazette says: "Whatever virtue there might have been in the German plea that the Lusitania was sunk because she was believed to be carrying ammunition, is destroyed in advance by the attempt to stop the Megantic Saturday. The Megantic was outward bound from Liverpool and certainly she was not carrying warlike supplies in that direction. She escaped because of her superior speed and not because of any German qualms about sinking an innocent passenger ship.

"The German reply to the American message is exactly what was expected. It avoids any direct answer to the specific questions asked by the United States. The German government, in short, seeks to gain time."

The Evening Standard says: "Germany has discovered a new form of diplomacy. This consists of glaring mis-statements so readily capable of disproof as scarcely to be worth the trouble of refutation. The note to America declares that the Lusitania had guns concealed under her deck and carried trained gunners. Apart from other evidence to the contrary, President Wilson is not likely to accept this in face of the official statement of the collector of the port of New York that no guns, mounted or otherwise, were on board. It is possible that Germany thinks to succeed in this gigantic game of bluff, but that only indicates the measure of her self-deception. When Washington wants to discuss submarine attacks on neutral vessels on the plane of an international policy Berlin replies by arguments and technicalities."

A BERLIN WRITER
AGAIN UPHOLDING
SUBMARINE ATTACKS.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Berlin, May 31.—Via London.—All the newspapers of Berlin today publish the German government's answer to the Washington communication on the Lusitania incident, but very few of them make any comment upon it. The Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung publishes the note under a headline, "The War."

The Bourse Zeitung prints a brief and mild editorial article, reiterating that the responsibility for the loss of lives lies with those who "took on board passengers to use them to a certain extent as hostages against attack."

The Tages Zeitung publishes extended comment from the pen of Count von Reventlow, its writer on naval affairs. This commentator says the German reply, together with Germany's earlier assurance of willingness and good will, will erroneously be taken to indicate preparations to give in and will lead to a more threatening demand for obedience. To those who expect signs of giving in on the part of the submarine boats, Count von Reventlow quotes from the war zone declaration of February 4, the phrase which warns vessels they are likely to be torpedoed and he intimates that this will be enforced in the future as it has been in the past."

The Welt Am Montag says: "Soon after the torpedoing of the Lusitania the United States filed a complaint with Germany that sounded almost threatening. More than twenty years ago American diplomats won for themselves the title of 'shirt-sleeved diplomats.' Consequently, one judges the tone and the standard of the American note by a customary inference from that government's behavior in Europe. The German government, therefore, has not become excited over the Washington note; on the contrary, it has replied in a calmness."

FRENCH REPORT ON HOSTILITIES

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Paris, May 31.—The French war office this afternoon gave out a report on the progress of hostilities, which reads: "There were no new developments during the night of May 30-31, with the exception of the check in the region of Notre Dame De Lorette to a German attack; this movement was easily repulsed by our troops."

"The number of prisoners taken yesterday at 'the labyrinth' in the southeast of Neuville St. Vaast is 150, including four officers."

JEWS ASK WILSON

The message asked the president to intercede in the case. He has not yet replied to the telegram.

The German Wounded.

Berlin, May 31.—(By wireless to Sayville, L. I.)

The Germans are terrifically systematic about their care of the wounded. All their men found on the battlefield receive a "first aid dressing." Each is tagged with a card, which indicates whether he is badly hurt or not. From the battlefield the wounded men are gotten back to the field hospitals or to headquarters. A man may be badly wounded and yet be back on the firing line in three months. Good pure blood is what helps the soldier through—his wounds heal easily after antiseptic dressings. It is well for everybody to put the blood in good order. Don't trifle with health! Its too precious a possession.

It is trifling to neglect the little every-day kind of ailments. It is trifling, too, to take medicines. If your stomach gets out of order, your food is not digested and, of course, your blood gets thin and you become weak, ready to be a prey to the disease germs always ready to attack the run-down and the anaemic. If your liver can't do its work, your blood becomes impure and many troubles follow. If your bowels are irregular, poisons accumulate in your body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery (in tablet or liquid form) helps the stomach to digest food properly, strengthens the liver, regulates the bowels. As a consequence you are vigorous, full of snap and life. Fifty years ago Dr. Pierce discovered that a glyceric extract of Golden Seal and Oregon grape root, with black cherry bark would aid all the digestive organs to work as Nature intended they should. Thousands have found that the "Golden Medical Discovery" he then introduced to the world has restored them to health when suffering from stomach and liver troubles. Now is the time to try this famous remedy.—Adv.

Home From Rares.
A number of Newarkites who had gone to Indianapolis Thursday and Friday to witness the automobile races returned Sunday, it being impossible to gain desired information as to whether they would be run today. Now they are sorry they returned as the race was run today.

Will See Big Race.
Clem Cole left Sunday night for Indianapolis after having received a long distance telephone message from a friend that the races would be run today. Mr. Cole will also visit several other Indiana cities before returning home.

Season Opens Tomorrow.
The closed season for bass comes to an end tomorrow. The spawning season is over and the lovers of the sport can pack their tackle and hike to the streams and lake. Many Newark anglers are preparing to get an early start for tomorrow, one of them, Fred Burrell, a veteran at the game and one of the champion bass fishermen of the county, remarking today that he had employed a watchman to call him at 3 o'clock at his cottage at the lake so that he might beat W. H. Broome upon the water and also land the first fish as he had understood that the latter gentleman had boasted that he would land the first fish caught out of the lake tomorrow.

Found Mushrooms.
A large number of mushrooms were gathered yesterday by residents of East Newark out along the Hanover pike. One party of three claimed to have picked twenty-five dozen of them. The season is about over for the delicious fungi.

Go-to-Church Band Notice.
The go-to-church band of the First Presbyterian church will hold its annual banquet Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock. All members are requested to be present.

Glass Tank Gave Way.
A glass tank at the plant of the American Bottle Company gave way shortly after noon Sunday, allowing the molten glass to escape. The hot fluid spread in a great pile over the floor around the tank. An alarm telephoned to the fire department, called all the apparatus to the scene but the services of the firemen were not needed. There was no loss other than the damage to the tank.

Contract is Approved.
The city Saturday night approved and filed the bond of the Harwood Barley Manufacturing company, which company was given the contract for the trucks for headquarters station. The company approved the terms of the contract which was tentatively drawn last week and the work of construction is already under way. The apparatus is to be delivered, according to terms of contract, about August 1.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place. Most headaches, "biliousness" and that raw feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lumpy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. At 10c and 50c per box. All druggists. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

AUTO RACERS BEGIN GRIND ON SPEEDWAY

BRICK TRACK, COOLED BY RAINS, WILL CONDUCE TO RECORD-BREAKING.

Ralph De Palma, in a Mercedes, was Favorite Before the Race, Over the Field.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Indianapolis, Ind., May 31.—With Carl Fisher, president of the speedway, leading the first lap, the 21 automobile racers started at 10 o'clock this morning on their 500-mile race. The first lap around the 2 1/2 mile brick track does not count and is intended merely to give the drivers a flying start. The skies remained cloudy and threatening.

Cox's car was declared out of the race after completing only 14 laps. A broken connection was given as the cause.

His was the first car to leave the race. Lowering clouds with a light mist falling did not dampen the ardor of thousands of motorists who began today to make their way to the local speedway. On account of heavy rain the race was postponed from last Saturday until today.

As early as 5 o'clock today, automobile enthusiasts in motor cars, interurban trams, railroad trains and street cars were on their way to the speedway.

Interest in the race is unusually keen on account of the excellent showing of American cars in practice and the great speed displayed by all entrants. American cars won the first two 500-mile contests and foreign cars finished first in 1913 and 1914. Ralph De Palma is the favorite in the betting. Howard Wilcox, Dario Resta and others, however, have large followings. The cold rains which caused postponement of the contest chilled the brick paving of the course, and the result will be it is declared by many, that fewer tire changes will be made and consequently greater speed can be maintained.

Rene Thomas, who established the record of 6:02:45 in 1914, drove on an average of 82.47 miles an hour.

AMERICAN SHIPS INCREASE THEIR TRADE CARRYING

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, May 31.—American ships carried $353,600,000 worth of the imports and exports of the United States during the eight months, ending with March 31. Figures made public today by the department of commerce showed that the total of imports and exports amounted to $2,797,000,000 of which 12.61 per cent. was transported in vessels under the American flag, compared with 8.34 per cent. of a total of $2,960,200,000 handled by American vessels during the same period last year. Up to May 1, one hundred and forty-two foreign built ships had been admitted to American registry under the law passed by congress.

SPLENDID.

and decoration of the graves of 23,000 soldiers in Arlington, came the dedication of the Maine memorial which closed the day's events.

Governor Frank B. Willis, of Ohio, paid tribute to "unknown dead," in the course of which he urged the nation to stand by the president of the United States in efforts to "keep us out of the broils of Europe."
"This nation must remember," said Governor Willis, "that there is a heroism of peace as well as a heroism of war. In its biggest and best sense, heroism is courageous service of the people's cause. He who calmly, conscientiously and unceasingly does his best to perform his duty to his family, to society and the state, though he may be to fortune and fame unknown is nevertheless, rendering a high public service."

"It is a proper function of government to encourage its citizens in the solution of their country's problems by giving every man, without regard to race or color, a fair chance, and by encouraging our people to sobriety, industry and economy. Our own people must be kept busy, our working men must be employed at good wages, our industries must prosper, legitimate enterprise should be encouraged. And this prosperity must depend upon forces within our country and not those without. A ghastly prosperity fed upon dead men cannot long endure."

"The president of the United States is making a successful effort to keep us out of the broils of Europe. Now is the time to keep cool, think carefully, and stand by the president. He and his cabinet know vastly more of our delicate relations with European governments than the rest of us can possibly know; let us hold up his hands in the patriotic effort he is making in this crisis."

"Our flag must mean the same to all the world as it means to us; it must stand for calm courage, steadfast devotion and lofty purposes in all our dealings with foreign nations. Righteousness is the strength of our cause. America is for the preservation of the rights of Americans for equity and justice and peace with honor."

EXERCISES HELD AT GRANT'S TOMB; PARADES REVIEWED.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, May 31.—Owing to the advanced age of most of the Grand Army veterans taking part in the Memorial day parade here today, the line of march was shortened to less than half a mile. Members of 44 Grand Army posts, a detachment of regulars from Governor's Island, many national guard and naval militia commands, Spanish war veterans and other organizations marched up Riverside Drive to the Soldiers and Sailors monument to be reviewed by Major General Leonard Wood, Rear Admiral Charles D. Sigbee, retired, and Major General John F. O'Rourke of the National Guard. Exercises were held at the monument and at Grant's Tomb. Henry Breckenridge, assistant secretary of war, was one of the speakers. Tonight memorial exercises will be held in Carnegie hall. A parade and similar exercises were held in Brooklyn.

WILL INCREASE JAPANESE ARMY BY 24,000 MEN

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Tokio, May 31.—The budget committee of the house today approved the project to increase the standing army of Japan. The measure provides for the addition of two divisions or about 24,000 men. The previous Diet was dissolved by the emperor in December last for declining to uphold the program of the ministry for military development.

The budget committee also approved a measure for the construction of three submarines and eight torpedo boat destroyers.

"Where do you find the most miserable of men?" exclaimed the exhorter fervently.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA
Nervous dyspepsia is a disease of the nerves, not of the stomach. Indigestion one day and complete freedom from symptoms the next usually means nervous dyspepsia, especially if the patient is of a nervous or highly emotional temperament.

The attacks recur at more or less regular intervals and are often brought on by nervous excitement. A sick feeling after eating, sometimes vomiting, a weak, shaky, "gone" feeling when the stomach is empty—these are the usual symptoms, but in the case of some highly nervous people the sight of food or the approach of meal-time may cause vomiting.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are especially useful to sufferers from nervous dyspepsia as they not only build up the general physical condition but also act directly on the nerves, strengthening and revitalizing them. These pills, with proper regulation of the diet, afford the most correct and successful way in which nervous and functional dyspepsia can be treated.

A postal card request to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., will bring a copy of a useful diet book and a pamphlet on nervous disorders, both free of cost to you. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

LEO FRANK IS MAKING LAST FIGHT

PREPARATIONS BEGUN TO APPEAL TO STATE PRISON BOARD FOR CLEMENCY.

Stress Laid Upon Doubt as to Guilt, Expressed by Trial Judge—Date Was June 22.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Atlanta, Ga., May 31.—The last night to save Leo M. Frank from the death penalty began here today with preparations for the hearing before the state prison commission on his application for commutation of sentence. Frank's counsel have tonight his case through the various state and federal courts and before the United States supreme court without a reversal of the original verdict of conviction, and the appeal for clemency is his last resort. His execution has been set for June 22 next.

Former Congressman W. M. Howard, in charge of Frank's case, was prepared to emphasize in his argument, the doubt as to the prisoner's guilt expressed by the late Judge Roan who presided at the trial, the dissenting opinion of two judges of the state supreme court when a decision was rendered affirming the findings of the lower court and the dissenting opinion of Justice Holmes and Justice Hughes of the United States supreme court when that tribunal denied Frank's appeal for a writ of habeas corpus.

Frank's counsel also was expected to present to the commission a letter written by Judge Roan, just before his death in which it was said he reiterated his doubt as to Frank's guilt and urged executive clemency.

Delegations from several cities in Georgia and Chicago and elsewhere also were expected to offer arguments in Frank's behalf.

Communications before the commission included a letter from Solicitor General Ramsey who posed out Frank protesting against clemency, the brief of Frank's attorneys and an argument by Hooper Alexander, United States attorney for the northern district of Georgia who as a private citizen appealed for commutation.

TURKISH REPORT OF HOSTILITIES

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM) Constantinople, May 30.—Via Berlin and London May 31.—The following official statement was issued tonight at the war office.

At Seddul Bahr the enemy seems engaged in filling gaps made on May 29.

Our Anatolian batteries on the Narrows, violently bombarded enemy positions at Seddul Bahr today (Sunday). Nothing of importance occurred at other points.

NEWARK PRIEST ON SUNDAY SAID HIS FIRST MASS

The ceremonies attendant upon the celebration of his first mass by Rev. Father Francis S. Mueller at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament in East Main street on Sunday, were exceptionally impressive and the seating capacity of the church was taxed to accommodate the large congregation.

Beautiful white flowers in profusion intermingled with the glow of many candles, the altar presented a fitting background for the solemnity of the occasion. Rev. Father Mueller is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Mueller of New Cedar street, and was ordained a number of other students at the Cathedral in Columbus on Saturday morning by the bishop of the diocese, Rt. Rev. James J. Hartley.

Father Mueller added the parochial school of St. Francis de Sales and was graduated from that high school. He attended St. Vincent's college in Pittsburgh, and later concluded his study of theology and philosophy at Cincinnati, having devoted twelve years to his studies.

At the first mass on Sunday morning Father Mueller administered the sacrament of Holy Communion and to the members of his family. First and later he blessed the blessing on the congregation. At 10 o'clock he celebrated the solemn high mass, with Rev. Father B. M. O'Boylan, acting as assistant priest, Rev. Father Charles H. A. Watterson, as deacon and Rev. Father John J. Cahahan, as Zanesville, as sub-deacon. Rev. Father Watterson, pastor of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, preached a most interesting sermon, touching on the life work of a man consecrating himself to the service of God.

Following the mass the priest, members of the family and the immediate friends of Rev. Father Mueller were entertained with a dinner which was served in the dining room of the school building. The appointments were delightful, the tables being arranged with flowers and foliage.

It is not known where Father Mueller will be located as Bishop Hartley will not make the assignments for a week or two.
